

Using intersectionality to understand current challenges in household energy flexibility

Online Lecture & Q/A

7/16
WED.

TIME

18:30-20:00 (JST)
11:30-13:00 (CEST)

JOIN

Online (Zoom)
Register from the QR code

LECTURER

Associate Professor
Jennifer Elise Branlat

Norwegian University of Science and Technology.
Department of Interdisciplinary Studies of Culture, Faculty of Humanities

LECTURE & PANEL DISCUSSION

Flexible energy use in households (demand-side management or DSM) is a critical response to the ongoing energy crises and the more extensive integration of renewable energy into energy production. Yet, the space of technology development continues to be dominated by quantitative modelling and the assumption that users will simply ‘adapt’ to constraints and opportunities. How can we understand more about the involvement of households and actual energy users?

CONTACT

Global Education Center
EDI project office

✉ info-edi@cc.ocha.ac.jp

☎ 03-5978-5506

Register from HERE!

Follow us on Instagram for more events information!